

MORNING APPEAL.

Sunday, February 20 1887.

AN OLD PRINCIPLE OF GOVERNMENT.

No law can change human nature. Men are prone to drink and gamble. Hence, wise legislation licenses these evils and derives a revenue from the vices and follies of mankind. This has been recognized as an economic principle for ages. The tax on gambling, whisky and tobacco helps materially to run the Government. It pays for the erection of public buildings, whereby the laboring man feeds his family, and the artisan and artist earn a living. The men who frame laws have found by experience that they cannot change the evil conditions of the world; hence they regulate them and exact a tribute from one class to help support another. The gambling element on this coast today supports this State. The big stock gamble goes on all the while and it enables the Enterprise to live. The salary paid the editor is indirectly drawn from the poor of San Francisco; the dollars he puts in his pocket comes from advertising the assessments on mines, while widows scrimp themselves to pay it. Does he ever think of these things? Probably not. He only looks at the Lottery bill as a form of gambling new to his experience, and denounces a lesser evil while he countenances a greater.

Bob Young's Body Found.

The Sentinel of the 16th says: A searching party of miners and citizens left town yesterday morning at daylight for the purpose of finding the body of Robert Young, who was buried in a snowslide on Prospect Mountain the day previous. By hard and diligent work his body was found about noon, some 300 feet from the place where it is supposed he was struck by the slide. When found the body was only six or eight inches under the snow, and had the slide carried him a few feet further down the side of the mountain his body would probably have come to the surface. There were no marks or bruises on his face, but on one side of his body there were several. The supposition is that he was killed almost as soon as the slide struck him, as he was a very muscular man, and if he had not been instantly stunned he would have worked his way out of the snow. The first thing his rescuers found was his pipe, filled with tobacco, and which his partner says he lighted immediately before leaving the cabin. The finding of his pipe gave the shovelers fresh courage, and soon after they discovered his body.

Deceased has followed mining here for a number of years, and was highly respected by all who knew him. He was made a Master Mason of Lodge of St. John, No. 189, at Dublin, Ireland, on the 13th day of March, 1874. We learn that he never affiliated with either of the lodges of this place. His funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Attention Soldiers.

The following G. A. R. Order has been issued:

National Headquarters G. A. R., Madison, Wisconsin, February 14, 1887. In view of the recent veto of the Department Pension bill, and of the very great importance of that measure to many of our disabled comrades who need and are justly entitled to help, it is recommended that Posts and comrades everywhere, by resolutions and letters, immediately inform members of Congress, who are entitled to and will gladly receive these expressions of opinion, of their approval or disapproval of the principles involved in the vetoed bill. Comrades are requested to move at once without waiting for printed circular.

By command of Lucius Fairchild, Commander-in-Chief; E. B. Gray, Adjutant General.

A Printer's Error.

Mr. Atwood of Stockton is a member of the City Council and also one of the proprietors of the Independent. For some time he has done the city printing and drawn his warrants. The City Attorney has dug up a Statute providing a fine and imprisonment for any officer of the State, city or county who receives an official contract, and the thrifty Mr. Atwood is to be prosecuted. A fine of $1,000 or five years in the State Prison awaits him. There is a similar law in this State but it has never been enforced.

When a Silent Man Speaks.

An example of the value of silence in legislation was never better exemplified than when Senator Pierce spoke for the Humboldt county railroad bill. He had been sitting quiet all the session and when he rose to speak the Senate was all attention. He made a short, direct talk full of sense and points, and when he sat down the result was the passage of the bill unanimously. Noisy members should study Pierce's methods and profit thereby.

We notice by the Sacramento papers that Weinstock & Lubin, the well known Dry Goods and Clothing house of that city are making extensive improvements in their store, one of the new features being two thirty feet plate glass windows.

They have also purchased adjacent property for the accommodation of their out of town mail order business, which is said to be many times the largest of its kind on the Coast.
